INTRODUCTION

Hidden away for many years in the manuscript collection of the Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio reposed a hand-fashioned book, carefully written with goose-quill pen and containing valuable genealogical information.

The catalog labeled it "Tax List for 1818" which made it seem of little interest to genealogists searching for records of early Cincinnatians. Census records for Hamilton County earlier than 1820 are among those destroyed when the British burned Washington, D.C. during the War of 1812.

A careful study of the manuscript disclosed that the date is 1817 and that the tax list was really an adjunct to a complete census of Cincinnati residents and business men in 1817.

Valuable information came to light! The problem of abstracting the vital statistics and preparing them for publication seemed a task well worth while as a contribution to the knowledge of the inhabitants of Cincinnati which was the cross roads of the west in the post-Revolutionary War era.

The tax list is not uninteresting for it inventories houses, lots, other property, horses, dogs and estates. It discloses the wealth of the city in those days as well as some of its problems. A number of men owned business and real estate in Cincinnati as an investment while they themselves resided out in the country or across the Ohio River in Covington or Newport, Kentucky.

The census enumeration is vitally interesting because it, like census reports before that of 1850, gives the head of the household by name, and notes members of his household as male and female in three age brackets: 21 years and up; between 12 and 21 years, and under 12 years of age. The one female usually of 21 and up we assume to have been the wife and mother. There were many children under the age of twelve years. Whenever a man had more than the usual number of a normal family enumerated in his household he was either a merchant or an innkeeper. Some trades, however, such as tobacconist, blacksmith, carpenter, brickmaker, needed more men, especially in the teen-age group. When a woman headed a large household we can safely assume that she ran a boarding house, although a tailoress and a seamstress also needed extra help.

For instance, Henry Bechtel (from Pennsylvania) was a merchant. He had several men and four colored persons listed in his household and presumably they worked in his large store. Thomas Burley had five males of 21 years and up, two females of 21 and up, and two colored persons among those enumerated. In the Cincinnati Directory for 1819 we find Mrs. Frances Burley listed as the operator of a boarding house. James Edmondson had 25 men of 21 years and up, 2 in the 12 to 21 bracket, 4 women 21 and up, and 7 children, with 9 colored persons counted in his household together with a horse and 2 dogs. The 1819 directory listed him as an inkeeper. Jesse Hunt, a wealthy merchant and president of Cincinnati City Council, was taxed for 6 houses, other property and business ventures for which there were 8 men and 5 women with 2 colored persons and several children listed under his name. However, from this we cannot deduce the exact members of his personal family. Samuel Davies, who later became mayor of Cincinnati, needed 5 colored persons, 6 extra men and several extra women to look after his four houses, several lots, two dogs and various business enterprises. Often when a citizen owned two or more houses the families were enumerated as one household.

We would like to be able to distinguish between children and apprentices or bound children of whom there were many in western households. These were usually children orphaned by the vicissitudes of the frontier or Indian raids. But no such identification was thought necessary in those days.

Where the scribe, with his goose-quill pen and bottle of iron-gall ink, wrote some unfamiliar names phonetically we have inserted the known name in brackets, such as Crofford - [Crawford]; Derrem - [Durham]; Heffley - [Haifleigh]; Noblaw - [Knoblough], or Sights - [Seitz].

This census has been checked against the 1819 Directory of Cincinnati, first of its kind, to note correctness of name, occupation and to learn if the family was still in residence.

Often a name is given without a census record, but with blank spaces. This "no enumeration" usually means that the citizen was taxed but lived outside the city limits.

Enumeration of colored persons is noted as such in this census either in the household or in the business where they were servants, or if they had their own homes when only the name of the head of the household is given with the number of colored persons living there. At times they are listed as taxables. In this abstract we have placed such names at the end of each alphabetical section.

Business firms on the tax list have been placed at the end of the census records with other entries such as "Heirs of Chamberland with Riddle," or "Estate of C. Hartsel with D. Embree," because they may offer clues.

The two lists of voters in elections for five delegates to the Northwest Territory General Assembly in December 1798 and for two more delegates in September 1799, based on population, are valuable in presenting the names of men who lived in Hamilton County, Ohio, at that time. It is not a complete list. Approximately one hundred more men voted in the September 1799 election than in the December 1798 election. This was due probably to an increase in the number of men living in the county and to better travel conditions through the wilderness in an earlier month.

At this time I wish to pay tribute to Mr. Lucien Wulsin, president of the Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio, whose high ideals, love of history, keen perception and encouragement have guided the organization to greater standards of achievement and growth in membership.

I also wish to acknowledge the aid and interest of Mr. Herbert F. Koch, Director, Mrs. Alice Palo Hook, Librarian, and the Committee of Publications: Mr. Frederick Giesel, Mrs. Alice Hook, Mr. Herbert F. Koch, Mr. Ernest Miller, Mr. Charles Sawyer and Mr. Lewis C. Thomson, whose approval and support have made this publication possible.

In publishing this census record for Cincinnati in 1817 with the additional lists of nearly 1,000 names of voters in the 1798 and 1799 elections in Hamilton County, Ohio, the Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio is making an important contribution to the knowledge of citizens living in this area before 1820.
